SOCCER

Bantam

This year's soccer team had great team spirit and it shined through every player. World Cup '94 inspired us to play hard - we even went as far as shoot outs in the semi-finals. Unfortunately, we lost but even the great ones must lose sometimes. Watch out, we'll be back next year.

This year, the Juvenile Basketball Team welcomed a new coach, Mr. Bliss. With the help of Mr. Bliss and all the team spirit that each teammate had, we had an amazing season. Although we did not make it to the finals, we worked hard and had fun.

The Field Hockey Season was great! Okay, so maybe we didn't win any games, and sure we had a few losses. But we also got a lot of ties, right? If the game was won by spirit instead of the number of goals in the net, we would certainly be #1. So cheer it loud, BELUGA, BELUGA, BELUGA!

Badminton, what can I say? Well badminton is not all its cracked up to be. Most think it is a very easy sport, but believe it, it is not that easy. Reflex, strategy and speed are qualities that are required for this game. Some of us began this season possessing these qualities, while others did not. Thanks to the coaching of Mrs. Vaupshas and Miss Martel. Many of us ended in the finals, but we all ended the season with better abilities. All in all it was a great season and we look forward to the next.

CARNIVAL 95'

This year's winter Carnival which involved Loyola, Q.A.A. Villa Maria and Sacred Heart, was great fun. Students participated in various activities such as skiing and snowboarding on Mt. St-Sauveur and roller skating at Recr  ath  que. Carnival ended with Junior and Senior Balls held at Loyola. A good time was had by all!

WALK-A-THON '95

On a sunny but windy Saturday morning in May, more than 1000 students from Loyola, Q.A.A., Villa Maria and Sacred Heart set out to walk 30 km in our annual Walk-a-thon. This year's theme was "Just walk it," and our charity was Tyndale House, a community center in Little Burgundy whose aim is to keep kids off the streets. As always, we all had a fun (though exhausting) time!

Well guys, we finally made it. Not to say without our share of problems and disasters. I must admit though, we did pull together in the end. To all of those who came in to school with me after exams, I want you to know that I could not have done it without you. Also a big thank you to Mr. Risacher for all his support and time. Hope you all enjoy the book!!

TRISTAN AND ISEULT

Drama was an ... interesting experience. The whole drama class was excited to be in the annual play. The moment we knew we were working with puppets, the drama class took on two different outlooks. Some bad, some good. But at the end, both casts were very proud to have been part of such a unique play.

On behalf of the Sec. IV and V drama class, I would like to thank Ms. Arseneault for all her patience and creativity.

PAST THE HORIZONS

Beyond a stream of water, there lies a field of gold,
Where people live forever, or so the stories told.
Where the sky is filled with clouds, and the sea is coloured blue,
Where the willow tree hangs longingly and the flowers bloom year through.
Where the birds fly with the unicorn, through morning, dawn and night,
Where the griffins come and join them in their never ending flight.
Where broken hearts don't exist, and lovers love is blind,
Where hate is but a word and its feeling hard to find.

Past the never ending boundaries of this wondrous promised land,
Lies a place of total nothingness, by an evil master's hand.
Beyond a stream of blood, a dying field unfolds,
Where the scene is like a battle field or so the stories told.
Where the sky is always grey and the sea is made of tar,
Where the willow tree and flowers, of a hatred bear the scar.
Where the birds no longer fly from morning time till night,
Where the griffin and the unicorn are paralysed by fright.
Where broken hearts come often, and hate is at its peak,
Where "love" is but a word, too sacred of to speak.

The Challenge

In a box, I love to swim,
Where all my chances seem so slim.
All the air which leaves my lungs,
To the surface it is "brung".

Water seems to hug my skin,
My arms, my legs which seem
so dim.
It carries me towards the force,
Towards the challenge and its course.

Through the water I began,
Towards the dark is where I swam.

Lots of bubbles left my lips,
Then were trapped between the kicks.
Noise was such I had to quit,
No one heard when I panicked.

Now, every bubble holds a story,
From the truth that shares the glory.
From the pain I was released,
Towards the surface, towards the beasts.

Now the story goes untold,
Till the next one will unfold.

She turned to look at him
Her eyes afire with hate.
Her lips curied in a pose of rage.

She knew no response
She knew not how to react.
The insult screams inside her head.
And tears at the soft tissue of her heart.

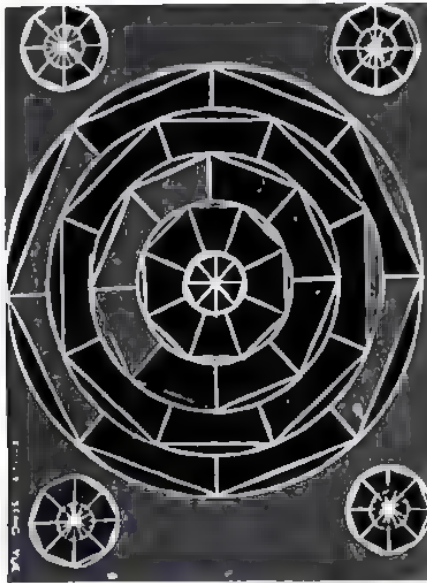

Safe all her life.
Sheltered, innocent, naive,
She knew not of the hate
He could force upon her.

But the purity she had possessed
Shattered like clean crystal.
Lay scattered on the bare floor,
Her back now pressed against the shards.

Blinding fear, passionate loathing,
Cloud her eyes.
As she is lost.

Kristina Heese, Sec V

Lately

Lately, I've been feeling sort of down,
It seems like you no longer care,
My feelings what are they worth to you?
Life is not perfect; it's far from fair.

Lately, I've been wondering,
Is it me you really need?
Meaningful words you tell me all the time,
But empty, they seem to be.

Lately, my shattered soul
Has caused me to ask you, "Why?"
I wonder what your reasons are,
But I know you'll just tell me lies.

Lately, I've been crying myself to sleep at night,
I realize all you've given me is pain,
Don't tell me you still really care,
'Cause you' just hurt - again and again.

Lately, what's been going on?
I feel like I'm falling apart.
Can you give me just one reason
For me to keep you in my heart?

Lately, my heart's been saying,
That my words to you should be goodbye.
Someone better I deserve,
No more tears my eyes can cry.

CHRISTMAS WISHES

The theme of Christmas Wishes 1994 was "An International Christmas". Our play portrayed the many different nationalities of our school and expressed our cultural diversity especially during Christmastime. We all realized that the true message of Christmas is "in giving, we receive."

DASHABUSTADD

This year's DASHABUSTADD was a tribute to our devoted teachers. They truly enjoyed our talent show, which portrayed the many talents of students from all grade levels; from singing to Hawaiian dancing, it truly was an entertaining show!

SEC. II RETREAT

SECONDARY III

SECONDARY IV RETREAT

Sec. IV Retreat was a blast, not just because we did not have any classes, but also because we had a chance to become closer to our friends outside the classroom environment. We had a chance to reminisce, to think about what we want to be, and what we want to accomplish in the future.

The weather was great and many of us took part in many outdoor activities such as snowball fights, snowfootball, and rolling down the hills. Memories were certainly made.

Sandy Moreira

SEC. V RETREAT

As it was one of the last occasions we would be recognized as the class of '95, retreat gave us many memorable moments to take with us. The snow football games, laughs, and let us not forget the tears, that we shared were all responsible for bringing us together as a whole. The time spent at St-Jerôme will definitely always remain with us.

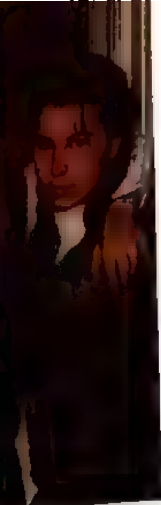

Elizabeth Dalzell, Sec V

To our precious daughters;

To celebrate the memories of your high school years, we are happy to have helped you create Etchings 1995. And in ten, twenty or even thirty years may it help you remember how you laughed with delight when Ms. Del Torto sang "You Are My Sunshine" at Dashabustadd, and your exuberant joy in the "Alice the Camel" song and dance tradition, and even your disappointment when Senior Day at the Winter Carnival was cancelled - Remember it all . . . fondly, warmly and with our love and affection.
